

The President Barack OBAMA
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20500
Etats Unis - USA

Mister President,

I am writing to you as an engineer of Muslim confession, 46-years old father of 3 children. I am doing my best to give my children the best possible education, in order to make them respect their neighbors and to help them have a good future. But since September 11, 2001, things have changed and nothing will be neither the same as before nor as I was expecting it to be.

All Muslims, including my children, are aimed and labeled as terrorists in front of the whole world. We are excluded from elementary rights of speaking, dressing, and if it goes on like that, we shall not dare to be called anymore with Muslim names. All this is based on the allegations of your government towards the Muslims for being responsible for the tragic events of September 11, 2001.

As many Muslims, I was very affected by the tragic events of September 11, 2001 when thousands of innocents were killed. I totally support the families of the victims as well as the American people in their pains. I was hoping that such an action would receive an exemplary trial where all the facts would be proved up to the smallest details to the whole world. That no more doubt would remain. The perpetrators and the commanders would be arrested, trialed and executed. Unfortunately nothing of such has been made. More over, your government classified too many evidence and started wars to kill innocent people all around the world.

The lack of information given by your government and my refusal to remain in doubt about the events forced me to start an independent investigation to understand what really happened on that horrible day of 9/11/2001. That investigation proved that the official story produced by your government is false and that Muslims are not involved in these attacks. I wrote three times to your predecessor, G.W. Bush, but he never answered. This is also the third letter I sent to you. After so many unanswered letters I decided to publish that one in Medias.

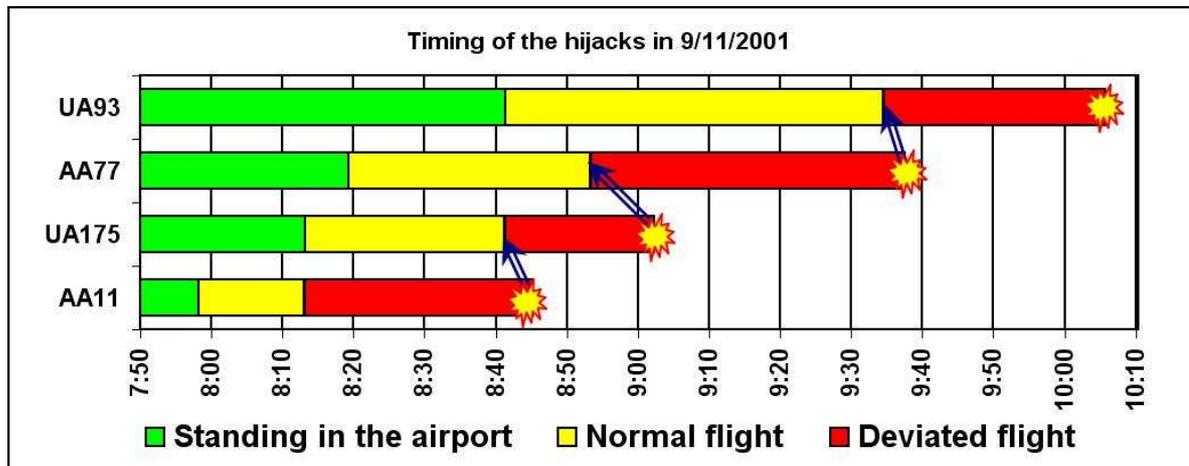

I can not explain all details in a small letter but I give you here the main evidences. I will be glad to explain you all remaining details.

1. The time graphic below represents the timing of the hijacks. It shows some coordination between the planes; this is visible by the successive aspect of the red bars representing the hijacked flight times. Such successive coordination of independent flights is useless and extremely difficult to make by four teams, it's actually impossible. At least, I did not found any reasonable explanation for that; you can dare to explain it and I will be glad to read you. About 10 years after the attacks, none of the official reports considered to explain that coordination while this is one of the first information to be studied.

The only other possibility to make these hijacks is by using high-tech systems to automatically guide the planes toward their targets; same as tomahawk cruise missiles find their target. The technology of that missile is produced only in your country. In that case, the team that controlled the planes should control one plane at a time. They finish their job when a plane is near its target and is flying toward it. At that time, they should start the hijack of the next plane. That makes the successive coordination of independent flights a mandatory outcome and exactly as it happened.

Since 2003 when I discovered that information, I have continued the investigation and explained every aspect of that graphic. It's totally consistent with one team made operation. Those people should be a secret team settled up by Bush administration. You should look for the perpetrators of the attacks inside Bush administration, amongst the Israeli agents who entered into USA during 2001 and some Israeli sleeper cells living in USA. I can give you some names to start your investigation.

The official reports published by your agencies are full of lies. Here are some big lies, I will not linger explaining all lies; your justice should do it.

2. It is impossible to know exactly which plane struck the Pentagon. The five images, published after the strike and included in the official ASCE report, do not allow defining the model of the plane. The report recognizes that the damage on the facade of the Pentagon fits to a plane of about 90 ft wingspan while Boeing 757-200 has a wingspan of 125 ft. The argument, contained in this report, which says that "the tips of both wings did not make direct contact with the façade" has a very little value and credibility. I would not defend it in justice.

The measurement I made on basis of damage span on the façade of the Pentagon is consistent with an aircraft of 95 ft wingspan. That is consistent with a Boeing 737-200/300/400 models.

Many other aspects of the ASCE report are also false.

3. The WTC twin towers were designed to resist to the impact of a Boeing 707 (even if the NIST declares not to find any track of this design), which is a civil aircraft having a size similar to the aircrafts that hit the towers. So the towers should not have collapsed. But they even did worse. They collapsed within the time required for a steel ball to fall down from the height of the towers to the ground. For a natural collapse by melting of several floors, this is impossible to explain. The lower structures that bore whole weight of the buildings and all wind forces during decades should have created some resistance to the collapse, and remove the possibility of free fall in the air. In the smallest possibility they should have delayed the collapse.

In the first note of chapter 9, the national commission report for 9/11 contains the following sentences: "These exterior walls bore most of the weight of the building. The interior core of the buildings was a hollow steel shaft, in which elevators and stairwells were grouped". That would mean the inner structure has no resistance. But when I compare this statement with the reality of the construction in the photo below, I notice huge lack of realism in it, as we can see that the interior columns are much bigger and stronger than the exterior columns.

Indeed, in all the skyscrapers, the interior cores are designed to bore most of the vertical weight and to resist against lateral forces, such as winds and earthquakes. That is why they contain very strong columns connected together by oblique beams which increase considerably the resistance against the lateral forces. These interior cores are able to stand still even when all the floors are collapsed and all the exterior columns are destroyed. This type of construction allows to reduce the number of solid columns to the core of the building and to limit the function of exterior columns to the vertical loads. So these exterior columns are smaller and allow facilitating the aesthetics of buildings.

These comments, reducing the function of the interior core columns, included in the national commission report are as an enormous lie contained in an official report. The global summary of NIST and FEMA reports is the same: The main structures are the outer columns and floor trusses; the core section is a minor part of the structures of the towers. These comments allow the authors to remain silent about all the analysis of the resistance of these interior core columns which are essential in the structure of the towers.

According to the measurements I made, the videos I watched and the study of the collapses themselves, the twin towers were demolished in the following manner:

- 1- During the months before September 2001, about 5000 radio controlled explosive packages were prepared with individual codes and battery. During the week-end of September 8-9, those explosives were installed in the towers on the key places defined before the attacks. For that purpose, the explosive sniffer dogs were abruptly removed on Thursday September 6 evening. Then the explosives were brought by trucks into the basements and loaded into the lifts in order to install them on all required floors. From the lifts, they got access to the core columns without removing any cover and without making any damage.
- 2- On Monday there was one normal work day. On Tuesday morning the planes hit the towers. On basis of the impact floor number, the perpetrators knew which explosives should be triggered first. A simple laptop computer sent the required radio signal sequence to trig the explosives with the defined sequence creating the sequential top/down collapse.
- 3- That sequence began by exploding the core columns at their welded junctions every three floors. That was above floor 77/WTC2 and 89/WTC1. That made the antenna of WTC1 fall before the outer columns. In WTC2, the difference of temperature on the outer columns made the upper part flip eastward.
- 4- Below those floors, the welded core channels, that support the floor trusses at their inner ends, were exploded on every floor. That made the floor trusses fall down from their inner end and placed the floors oblique as shown in the drawing below. The high pressure created in the core by the successive explosions escaped outward guided by the oblique floors creating the upward/outward dust ejections visible in the videos. Such upward/outward ejections could not exist without oblique floors and overpressure of continuous explosions.

- 5- Finally when the explosions reached the ground level and everywhere was covered with dust clouds some stills standing core columns were exploded at their lower junctions making them collapse up to the ground.
- 6- As most of the explosions happened inside the welded core channels, these parts are the most irregularly damaged structural parts. Here are some pictures of these channels published in the NIST report. The damages of the seats are also consistent with explosions happening behind these channels.

Regrettably, the official reports produced by your agencies did not consider many of that strong and important evidence. They produced false reports containing tens of thousands of pages that tell everything except the truth. That shows your government failed to make justice and protected the actual perpetrators of these attacks. That means, your government is complicit and guilty of making these attacks. We can also tell that your predecessor, G.W. Bush, ordered the application of that criminal operation against his own citizen and he is responsible of these attacks. By that I call him to appear before the justice of the Humanity.

And for you, The President Obama, with all due respect I have for you yet, if you continue to remain silent and you do not use your authority to make a real independent investigation, you become also complicit with the perpetrators of these attacks by protecting them. By the continuation of invasions and wars against innocent civilians in Afghanistan and in Iraq, you are perpetrating war crimes and you should also justify yourself before the justice of the Humanity. I hope you will act before the end of your mandate and you will not have to face the justice of the Humanity.

I remember your speech in Cairo; you used some statements of Bin Laden to justify your position and your refusal for any debate about these attacks. The only true statement of Bin Laden is his first one, made on 9/11/2001 when he refuted any involvement. After that, your army was searching him "dead or alive" making him ready to make any declaration on the smallest request of your government. To consider any statement of Bin Laden, it is necessary that he is treated as "presumed guilty", heard by an independent court which guarantees his life and check all his statements. Even though I do not give any importance to Bin Laden, if an independent court states that he is involved and declares him guilty in these attacks of 9/11/2001, I will sincerely consider defending your action against terror within my community. Without such a court verdict, the confessions of Bin Laden are invalid.

The evidence explained here up proves that Afghans are not involved in 9/11! And you, as president of USA, you are attacking their poor, innocent, simple minded civilians using the most powerful army of the world with high-tech weapons designed and produced by the human killing industry. Do not expect those Afghans showing the left cheek. They may be wrong, but you will get the defensive reaction of those civilians. They will name it "Jihad", fighting against injustice. The Christian "Holy War", in the meaning of "killing non-Christians for God", does not exist in Islam and it can never exist. Such vision of "holy war makers" is a blame of your Christian faults on Muslims.

Your heritage from G.W. Bush is too worse and hard to manage. I and many Muslims are aware of that. But as always, the first step is Justice with open evidence. Nobody can blame you for making justice. More over, too many people will support you in your action for justice and the image of USA will be better if your country is able to make justice for the innocent victims of Bush era.

I am looking forward to receiving an answer from you, and in the meantime I remain, Yours Sincerely.
